 Year 14, 5713-5714. Tel. 2-1111.

THE year seems likely to end as it began — with a Government crisis in France.
 The existing balance of power there makes it unlikely that a coalition will be formed quickly, or without protracted negotiations between President Auriol and the party leaders.

FRENCH CRISIS

M. Schuman, the Gaullist leader in Parliament, had once before been asked to form a Government, but at that time the Gaul-lists had considered themselves above collaborating with the traditional politicians of the other parties. Since then their R.P.F. party, which had been founded early in 1947, has undergone important changes. The right-wing had joined it as the only major non-left party in France.

These elements split from the party as soon as the traditional right-wing elements outside the Gaullist Movement gathered strength under the late Poincaré Government last summer. The coming of such ex-Vichyites and other conservatives as Barthelemy and Lemaître, or ex-Gaulists like Mitterrand, is a sign that the party, which, basically, is not right-wing.

These remaining included the masses of the party, as represented by General Monnet, the Albert Thomas, and a left-wing group, headed by Jean Paul Fautouh, Fouchet and Mitterrand, who favored the participation of the workers both in the management and the profits of industry. M. Mon-net, who is a member of the R.P.F., was, in the long run, the most influential of the party, which, basically, is not right-wing.

There appear also to have been contacts between the Gaullists and the Socialists, but though the R.P.F. is politically and socially much closer to them now than the crisis began, the Socialists, the Gaullist leadership of de Gaulle, and they differ even more on questions of foreign policy in such matters as North Africa and European Union.

It was these basic differences of opinion which prevented an agreement between the Gaullists and the parties left of center, and, according to the old rule, it is now the task of somebody of the center, such as Georges Bidault, to bring them together.
 But it is extremely doubtful if such a Government will be able to obtain a stable majority or to accomplish more than the Poincaré coalition, and there does not appear to be any quick and radical way out of the present crisis in view of the French political constitution and the deep-seated balance of power.

Flourishing Citrus Industry Developing in Cyprus

By Shosh Gershon
 The citrus industry in Cyprus, one of the oldest in the island's history, has only recently developed into a flourishing business in the last few years.

Last year, income from citrus amounted to over £1m. and was the island's most important agricultural export. This sum compares with an average £200,000 a year between 1935 and 1945.

While, between 1935-39 the average annual production of citrus amounted to 370,000 cases, last year's output reached 1,100,000 cases, consisting of 764,200 of oranges, 147,200 of lemons, and 189,700 of grapefruits.

This enormous increase is due to a number of factors, including increased area under cultivation, more and better methods of irrigation and improved methods of dissemination and marketing.

Between 1935, marketing citrus in Cyprus was very inefficient and did not extend beyond the Middle East and a few European countries. Last year fruit was sent to 20 different countries, including Malaya, Norway, Sweden and the United States.

The principal market is still the U.K., followed by Germany and Scandinavia. In the Middle East, Egypt and the Sudan are good customers while in the Far East, Singapore and Malaya both show considerable interest.

Although Britain this year has purchased practically the entire Cyprus lemon and grapefruit crop, her interest in citrus has been comparatively insignificant.

North African Jewry's Plight

THE 300,000 Jews living in the French North African Protectorates face the most precarious political, social and economic conditions. Their problems have been intensified in the current bid for independence in French North Africa, which has caused extensive local violence and the refusal of French delegates to participate in U.N. meetings discussing the nationalist demands.

Jews in Tunisia are somewhat better situated than those in Morocco, owing to the fact that Tunisia has been a French Protectorate since 1881 — some 30 years longer than Morocco. In Tunisia, Jews not only enjoy the same rights of citizenship as Moroccans, but a large number have become naturalized French citizens, and enjoy the same status and privileges as Europeans.

However, the vast majority of the Jews of both countries suffer from social and economic harassment that is characteristic of the situation of minority groups living in a Muslim society.
 The Jewish situation in Morocco — one of the oldest Jewish communities in the world — has been deteriorating for centuries, and today it is hardly better than it was before the establishment of the Protectorate.
 In these days, the Jews were charged with the duties of local officials, forced to live in a "Jewish ghetto" — in a state of perpetual alarm.

With the establishment of the Protectorate, the situation of the Jewish population was ameliorated, although many of the disabilities of living in a Muslim society remained. Thus, in Morocco, only 10 per cent of the Jewish population is actually employed, and 50 per cent are in need of relief. As a result, the vast majority lives in abject poverty, hardly surpassed anywhere in the world, segregated in ghettos where the population density is three to four times as great as in the most crowded Moslem slums, without ventilation or sanitary facilities.

The resultant health hazards have been tremendous — one out of every two Jews suffers from tuberculosis, trachoma, diabetes or ringworm. Seventy per cent of all infants show tubercular symptoms — a disease responsible for 30 per cent of deaths among children up to five years of age.

 In one city — Casablanca — some 50 per cent of the children suffer from trachoma, and 30 per cent from ringworm.

Thousands of children are not receiving any education at all.
 Only some 20,000 are being cured for the disease maintained by the Alliance Israélite Universelle of France, and some others in local schools which do not come up to modern standards.

Public Health Recommendations

To the Editor of the POST Mr. — Somebody kindly forward me four articles published in The Jerusalem Post, between October 10 and November 1, written by Gerd L. Cohen.

Last year I was asked by your Government to make a survey of health conditions in Israel. I completed my survey during the month of July and submitted my report to the Prime Minister and the Minister for Health through the Director General of Medical Services.

Amongst the many things which I recommended were:
 1. Health education of the people.
 2. Training and employment of sufficient and efficient health personnel.
 3. The need for a proper Public Health Act.

I should like to congratulate the writer of the four articles, and I only hope that her wise words of advice will be taken to heart by the people of Israel.

Public health services and standards of hygiene in Israel are of a low order. There are very few trained Public Health medical and sanitary personnel.
 The few trained people who are in the service are doing a wonderful job of work, but they are hampered by lack of funds, material, equipment and transport.

Above all, there is a lack of appreciation and support for the work they are doing by the public generally.

I fully realize how difficult it is to buy the necessary equipment and to provide transport for Public Health workers, but unless these conditions are resolved the necessary financial support, no sound foundations can be laid for the building of a healthy nation.

These public health requirements are neither trivial nor fancy, but basic necessities upon which the safety and good health of the nation depend.

The delay in Court procedure and the inadequate fines for persons who violate and undermine the very principles of public health, and who refuse to comply with the requirements of the Health Department, almost reduce a health prevention to absurdity and ridicule.

I have suggested that a Court consisting of a doctor (preferably one who has Public Health experience), a lawyer and an engineer, should be established to deal with such cases, and that every case should be tried within a fortnight from the date of report to the Court by the Health Department. If the person presented is found guilty he should

Air Raiders

ISRAEL still has no many birds of prey as underdeveloped countries usually boast, the most numerous probably being the kestrel (several species) and the Egyptian falcon. Most of the first are residents and can be seen all the year round in their characteristic hovering posture above the fields, which they quarter methodically for mice, beetles, and the like. The great black and white vulture (aegypius aegypius) breeds here wherever they find their rock faces for their eggs, and being like all vultures, colors of carcasses, are also very useful.

A great many birds of prey pass Israel on their way further south, or come to stay for the winter. On a visit to Galilee I saw one of these great birds sitting on every telegraph pole, the most impressive among them a yellow-bellied, light-colored eagle, probably the spotted eagle (aquila clangula).

Among the visitors to the coastal plain where I live are
